June 14, 2015

Today's readings are about promise and hope when the end is not in sight. God offers a vision of restoration to the Israelites suffering in exile, Paul urges faith and courage to those who wait for Christ's return, and Jesus tells us that the kingdom of God will not appear in a day. Seeds planted are always sown in faith and hope that something more will spring up, no matter how long it takes. Builders of the kingdom have to be patient people.

11th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

They that are planted in the house of the LORD shall flourish in the courts of our God. -Psalm 92:14

MARK YOUR CALENDARS...

Sunday, June 28th at 1 p.m. - Deacon Simeon's First Mass followed by a Parish Carry-In Meal . If you or you and your family are planning to attend, please email the parish: miller@myhollyfamily.com or call us at 221-1078. Plan to bring a salad (any type), vegetable (any kind), or dessert to share and let us know the number of people who will be attending!

ALL IS GRACE

On Sundays in Ordinary Time, the Old Testament reading is selected for the light it sheds on the day's Gospel. Today, Ezekiel sees God lifting up the lowly tree and making the withered tree bloom. So in the second parable of today's Gospel, Jesus encourages us by promising that, as fragile seeds grow into an abundant harvest, and the tiny mustard seed into a hearty plant, so God will grow the kingdom from small beginnings to an instrument of salvation for all. In the first parable, the land yields fruit "of its own accord" (Mark 4:28). Not only is the initiative God's, but the parable teaches that the seed's growth, though invisible at first, is actually unstoppable! To be sure, those who depend on the impressive or dramatic in order to be convinced or encouraged will be disappointed in the slow unfolding of the kingdom that Jesus announces. But for those who do accept the kingdom, all is grace, and that grace is certain. Though the second reading is not coordinated with either the first reading or Gospel on these Sundays, today's is thematically appropriate. Saint Paul argues that our experience of God's trustworthiness thus far should make us a people of undaunted courage and unshakeable faith. But at the same time Paul warns that faith should also make us aware of our responsibility to do good. Copyright (c) J. S. Paluch Co.

SEEDS OF THE KINGDOM...

If you read any of the accounts about American Pharaoh last weekend, and the way he secured a place in sports history by winning the Triple Crown, you might have thought his triumph was inevitable. But the man who helped raise him wasn't so sure.

Tom VanMeter, owner of Stockplace Farm in Kentucky, remembers it this way: He says at the time of American Pharaoh's birth [three years ago], the colt was just "another nice big brown horse." "It's like saying that Michael Jordan was going to be a great basketball player when he was in kindergarten," VanMeter said. "You just don't know."

You just don't know when something small might defy all expectations. It's that way with horses. As this Sunday's Gospel suggests, it's that way with mustard seeds—and with the kingdom of God.

In Mark's Gospel this Sunday, we hear Jesus compare the kingdom of God to a mustard seed. It "is the smallest of all the seeds on the earth," he told his followers. "But once it is sown, it springs up and becomes the largest of plants."

An ancient writer, Pliny the Elder, once described the mustard seed this way: "With its pungent taste and fiery effect, mustard is extremely beneficial for the health. It grows entirely wild, though it is improved by being transplanted: but on the other hand, when it has once been sown, it is scarcely possible to get the place free of it, as the seed when it falls germinates at once."

That may not be what many of us think the kingdom of God to be like—pungent, fiery, hard to control. But there's also something wonderful and exciting about that description. Jesus described a kingdom that started small, but grew to a point where no one could contain it, and even the birds could build their homes in it. It is a place of great, limitless possibility—one that welcomes all.

And isn't that the sort of place we'd like to call home?

As we slip back into ordinary time this weekend, and move further from the fire and fervor of the Easter season, it's good to remember that sometimes what seems ordinary is, in fact, extraordinary. We need to remain alert to possibilities of grace—or even, perhaps, small miracles. They are the seeds of the kingdom. Who knows what wonders await?

More importantly: if the seeds of the kingdom are here, how can we help it grow?

Listening to the Gospel this Sunday, let us pray that we can help make God's kingdom flourish here on earth—spreading the good news with our lives—and making that kingdom a welcoming place for everyone.

- Deacon Greg Kandra, Midweek Reflection, Liturgical Publications, 2015

PRAYER Heavenly Father, Pour forth your Holy Spirit to inspire me with these words from Holy Scripture. Stir in my soul the desire to renew my faith and deepen my relationship with your Son, our Lord Jesus Christ so that I might truly believe in and live the Good News. Open my heart to hear the Gospel and grant me the confidence to proclaim the Good News to others. Pour out your Spirit, so that I might be strengthened to go forth and witness to the Gospel in my everyday life through my words and actions. In moments of hesitation, remind me: If not me, then who will proclaim the Gospel? If not now, then when will the Gospel be proclaimed? If not the truth of the Gospel, then what shall I proclaim? God, our Father, I pray that through the Holy Spirit I might hear the call of the New Evangelization to deepen my faith, grow in confidence to proclaim the Gospel and boldly witness to the saving grace of your Son, Jesus Christ, who lives and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever. Amen. - New Evangelization Prayer © USCCB.

STEWARDSHIP... What does gratitude have to do with our lives and faith? Sometimes it is difficult for us to grasp that all we are and have are gifts from God. So thinking about a time in which we have been moved with gratitude helps us to apply that realization to life and faith. Developing an "attitude of gratitude" changes the way in which we perceive daily life, and helps us to recognize God's place in it.
